[Poem] Oh my wounds hurt and ache, and don't worry about my tears and wining.

Or

Ache me and strike in every region by martyring [death or martyr], outlawing or imprisoning

Ache my wounds, because despite all of the crises that happened to me, I am unaware and haven't even broke a sweat

Go ahead and hurt me, I am not afraid of you anymore, because I have been loving you [TC: not clear Death/Martyrdom], because if I do not, it consumes me.

Prevent others from rising above, and bring on whatever you have of the year's oppression....
Let my eyes see all kinds of sorrow

Repeat the scenario scene, and keep my eyesight focused on you
Tear my heart into all types of disasters
And make the sorrow my friend and mate.

And nurse my children with whatever powerful wrath you have till the mercy is killed in their sad hearts

Tarnish my honor, because the honor is precious to me, and without it I would rather you behead me, before depriving me of it.

Weaken my strength with your oppression if you wish, be in control of my homeland and step into my lion's den.

Oh hurt me, because I become stronger every time you go too far in dishonoring my religion. Go ahead and hurt me, because each wound from you is a sea of torment, and sadness in my arch. The peak of my pain quit from the sorrows, and elevated the soul beyond the shameful life.

Go ahead and control the craziness, because the integrity of conduct is regained.

Elevate ones soul from dirt and mud

Maybe looking up will drive me down

[TC: not sure possibly -And death approaches and will bring the apparent victory].

Oh my wounds might kill me but you are just drops in the sea of my belief certainty.
